

The Philadelphia Department of Public Health invites you to the first

Healthy Philadelphia Community Meeting

Thursday, Jan. 28, 2010

6:30 PM

North Philadelphia

Church of the Advocate, 18th and Diamond St.

We are calling on community leaders, block captains, religious leaders and others to help find people in your community who can tell their health care stories at our first Healthy Philadelphia community meeting. We want to know:

- What challenges have you or your family had in getting high quality on-going health care for your health problems?
- Have you been able to get the care you need?
If you leave the hospital?
If you need specialty care?
- Have you been able to get the medications you need?

Healthy Philadelphia is a new non-profit organization dedicated to working to solve the health care problems we face. Healthy Philadelphia unites all of those most concerned about health.

Together we can tackle our most urgent health care concerns...using our resources in the best way so that every Philadelphian can get convenient, affordable, high-quality care in our city.

Healthy Philadelphia grew out of a voters' mandate that required the Department of Public Health develop a plan for universal health care. This mandate passed by 87% in North Philadelphia.

The co-chairs of Healthy Philadelphia are Donald Schwarz, MD, Philadelphia Health Commissioner and John Rich, MD, Chair, Department of Health Management and Policy, Drexel School of Public Health.

Please join us for this first Healthy
Philadelphia community meeting!

A light dinner will be served.
